RE: US Postal Service

U.S. POSTAL REGULATORY COMMISSION

We are writing to express our immense concern over Louis DeJoy's proposals to slow down delivery services even more of the USPS, shut down post offices in some areas, eliminate some services and increase postal rates for reduced services to the American public.

This is a travesty to the American public who rely on these services and prompt delivery of our mail. Many people will suffer if there are no longer Post Offices in their neighborhoods with secure post office boxes to receive their mail. Many Americans use the Postal services to get their prescriptions by mail – the only way they can save a little money with their high insurance costs. Not every American has access to a computer to receive their monthly bills, pay their bills, communicate with others far away, get passports renewed or get a new passport.

Louis DeJoy is a failure as a representative of this American public service and should be removed. All politics should be removed from this public service. Also, the Post Office use to make a profit, even if it was small, before Congress was allowed to interfere with the distribution of monies from the Postal Services.

We are not willing to settle for this American Public Service to be destroyed for political purposes. America needs the Postal Services to operate efficiently and continue the exceptional service we use to have in this country. There are other services the Post Office could be providing that would generate additional income, create more jobs and allow the postal workers to earn a decent living and provide their fellow Americans with the exceptional service we have had in the past before DeJoy and Trump initiated their war against anything good in this Country.
